FREDRICK J. BUSH,

v.

JOSEPH MCDONOUGH,

Respondent.

Civil Action No. 04-12122-JLT

RESPONDENT'S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF HIS MOTION TO DISMISS

Respondent Joseph McDonough, in his capacity as the Sheriff of Plymouth County, Massachusetts (the "Respondent"), hereby submits this Memorandum of Law in support of his Motion to Dismiss (the "Motion") the habeas corpus petition (the "Petition") filed by Petitioner Fredrick J. Bush (the "Petitioner").<sup>1</sup> The Petition must be dismissed because the Petitioner has failed to satisfy the statutory requirement that he first exhaust state remedies.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> In accordance with this Court's Order dated October 12, 2004, the Respondent has attached documents reflecting whether the Petitioner previously exhausted state remedies with respect to the matters raised by the Petition. Specifically, attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true and accurate copy of the docket from the Petitioner's underlying criminal case, Commonwealth v. Bush, Case No. PLCR2002-00091 in the Plymouth County Superior Court (the "Plymouth Docket"), and attached hereto as Exhibit B is a true and accurate copy of the docket from an interlocutory appeal filed by the Petitioner, Case No. SJ-2002-0558 in the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts (the "SJC Docket"). The offering of such documents is not meant to imply that the Respondent considers the Petitioner to have exhausted state remedies. In fact, the Respondent takes a position to the contrary, as explained herein.

<sup>2</sup> Given that the Petition must be dismissed for the grounds stated herein, the Respondent does not address herein the merits of the Petition. Should this Court rule that the Petitioner may proceed with his habeas corpus action, the Respondent respectfully requests the opportunity to file an answer and a proposed scheduling order for the parties to brief the merits of the Petition.

BACKGROUND

The Petitioner is currently an inmate at the Plymouth County Correctional Facility, which is located in Plymouth, Massachusetts and operated by the Plymouth County Sheriff's Department. His incarceration arises from convictions on violent and weapons-related offenses.

On February 15, 2002, an indictment was returned against him on the following charges: distributing or manufacturing a Class B substance, phencyclidine/cocaine (Count I); resisting arrest (Count II); armed assault with intent to murder (Count III); assault and battery with a dangerous weapon (Counts IV and VI); possessing or transferring a dangerous weapon without a firearms identification card (Count V); and committing a drug offense in the vicinity of school property (Count VII). (Plymouth Docket at 3, 8-9.) He was arraigned before the Plymouth County Superior Court on March 8, 2002. (Id. at 3.)

The Superior Court's docket reflects that the Petitioner filed numerous pretrial motions. Among these was a motion to suppress evidence seized by the government, which was filed on October 4, 2002 and denied on December 9, 2002. (Id. at 5.) Consequently, on December 16, 2002, the Petitioner filed a Notice of Interlocutory Appeal and petitioned the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts ("SJC") for leave to file an interlocutory appeal of the denial of his motion to suppress. (Id. at 3; SJC Docket at 1.) The SJC (Greaney, J.) denied his request for an interlocutory appeal on February 21, 2003. (SJC Docket at 1.)

Between October 14 and October 16, 2003, the Superior Court (Hinkle, J.) dismissed Count III of the indictment on a motion by the Commonwealth, and it allowed the Petitioner's motion for a required finding of not guilty as to Count I of the indictment, but not as to the other remaining counts. (Plymouth Docket at 6-7.) On October 17, 2003, following a jury trial, the Petitioner was found guilty on Counts II, IV, V, VI, and VII. (Id.) On Count II, he was given a sentence of between two years and two years and one day at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Cedar Junction ("MCI - Cedar Junction"), but was given 680 days of credit for time served. (Id. at 7.) On each of Counts IV and V, he was sentenced to two years at the Plymouth County Correctional Facility. (Id.) The Petitioner was also sentenced to serve two years on probation on Count VI and two concurrent years on probation on Count VII. (Id.) Additionally, the court assessed a $150.00 drug fee and a $90.00 victim-witness fee, and it imposed terms of probation that included drug testing, random urinalyses, anger management, and the payment of a $65.00 monthly probation supervision fee. (Id.)

On October 22, 2003, the Petitioner filed a nonspecific Notice of Appeal. (Id. at 7; Notice of Appeal of 10/22/03, a true and accurate copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit C.) Then, on October 31, 2003, the Petitioner filed another Notice of Appeal challenging, in particular, his sentence to MCI-Cedar Junction on Count II. (Plymouth Docket at 8.) His appeal of the sentence on Count II was referred to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court, and it was dismissed without prejudice and without a hearing on July 23, 2004. (Id.)

The Petitioner filed additional papers in state court following his trial. In particular, he filed the following pro se: a November 17, 2003 motion to waive his victim-witness, drug, and probation supervision fees; a November 24, 2003 nonspecific notice of appeal; a November 24, 2003 motion to revise and revoke his sentence, which was held by the court on the Petitioner's request; a June 24, 2004 motion for release from unlawful restraint; and a September 7, 2004 motion to compel the Superior Court to take action on his June 24, 2004 motion. (Id.; Notice of Appeal of 11/24/03, a true and accurate copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit D; Motion to Compel of 9/7/04, a true and accurate copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit E.) At no point, however, did the Petitioner commence a direct appeal of any of his convictions, notwithstanding his several notices of appeal.

The Petitioner filed his Petition requesting habeas corpus relief on October 5, 2004.

ARGUMENT

The Petitioner failed to satisfy the statutory requirement that he exhaust state remedies prior to filing his Petition.

The Petitioner is barred from pursuing this action because he failed to satisfy the statutory requirement that he exhaust his state remedies prior to filing his Petition. This exhaustion requirement is codified at 28 U.S.C. § 2244, which provides in relevant part as follows:

(b)(1) An application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court shall not be granted unless it appears that –

(A) the applicant has exhausted the remedies available in the courts of the State; or

(B)(i) there is an absence of available State corrective process; or
(ii) circumstances exist that render such process ineffective to protect the rights of the applicant.

(c) An applicant shall not be deemed to have exhausted the remedies available in the courts of the State, within the meaning of this section, if he has the right under the law of the State to raise, by any available procedure, the question presented.

28 U.S.C. § 2244, as amended by the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 (“AEDPA”), P.L. No. 104-132, Title I, § 104, 110 Stat. 1218 (effective April 24, 1996).

The exhaustion requirement is primarily designed to promote comity in our system of federalism, as the U.S. Supreme Court has explained:

The exhaustion doctrine is principally designed to protect the state court’s role in the enforcement of federal law and prevent disruption of state judicial proceedings. . . . Because “it would be unseemly in our dual system of government for a federal district court to upset a state court conviction without an opportunity to the state courts to correct a constitutional violation,” federal courts apply the doctrine of comity, which “teaches that one court should defer action on causes properly within its jurisdiction until the courts of another sovereignty with concurrent powers, and already cognizant of the litigation, have had an opportunity to pass upon the matter.”

Rose v. Lundy, 455 U.S. 509, 518 (1982) (quoting Darr v. Burford, 339 U.S. 200, 204 (1950), overruled in non-relevant part by Fay v. Noia, 372 U.S. 391 (1963)); see also Duckworth v. Serrano, 454 U.S. 1, 3 (1981) (“The exhaustion requirement . . . serves to minimize friction between our federal and state systems of justice by allowing the State an initial opportunity to pass upon and correct alleged violations of prisoners’ federal rights.”); Nadworny v. Fair, 872 F.2d 1093, 1096 (1st Cir. 1989) (explaining that exhaustion requirement embodies “the federal sovereign’s respect for the state courts’ capability to adjudicate federal rights”); Mele v. Fitchburg Dist. Court, 850 F.2d 817, 819 (1st Cir. 1988) (noting that exhaustion requirement “ensures that state courts have the first opportunity to correct their own constitutional errors,” enables federal courts to accord appropriate respect for state sovereignty, and promotes comity by minimizing friction between federal and state justice systems). An additional benefit of the requirement is that “claims that have been fully exhausted in state courts will more often be accompanied by a complete factual record to aid the federal courts in their review.” Rose, 455 U.S. at 519.

In light of these important purposes, “a habeas petitioner bears a heavy burden to show that he fairly and recognizably presented to the state courts the factual and legal bases of his federal claim.” Adelson v. DiPaola, 131 F.3d 259, 262 (1st Cir. 1997) (noting that “setting forth the factual underpinnings of a claim is insufficient, in and of itself” as the “petitioner must also elucidate the legal foundation of his federal claim”); see also Nadworny, 872 F.2d at 1096 (stating that state prisoner must present both factual and legal underpinnings of claim to state courts for exhaustion requirement to be found satisfied). Moreover, it is not sufficient for a petitioner to raise his federal claims merely through a motion in state trial court or even an appeal to an intermediate court. Rather, he must “present, or do his best to present, his federal claim to the state’s highest tribunal.” Adelson, 131 F.3d at 263; see also Mele, 850 F.2d at 819-20 (stating that it has long been the rule that power of highest state court must be exhausted before federal court will consider questions posed in habeas petition; affirming that “[i]t is not enough merely to raise an issue before an intermediate court; one who seeks to invoke the federal habeas power must fairly present – or do his best to present – the issue to the state’s highest tribunal”; and noting that Massachusetts petitioner was obliged to try to bring his constitutional objections before SJC to preserve them for federal habeas review).

The Petitioner here cannot meet his heavy burden, because he has not even approached an exhaustion of state remedies. Indeed, he has never filed a direct appeal of his conviction or otherwise made any attempt to place his conviction squarely before the SJC. The Petitioner has filed papers, to be sure. These have included the following: an interlocutory appeal of a motion to suppress evidence seized by the government; an appeal to the Appellate Division of his sentence; two other notices of appeal; a motion to waive his victim-witness, drug, and probation supervision fees; a motion to revise and revoke his sentence; a motion for release from unlawful restraint; and a motion to compel the Superior Court to take action on his motion for release from unlawful restraint. However, only the first of these, his interlocutory appeal, was presented to the state’s highest tribunal.<sup>3</sup> His filing of that appeal does not satisfy the exhaustion requirement.

<sup>3</sup> The other motions filed by the Petitioner in the trial court could not have satisfied the exhaustion requirement even if they had been appealed to the SJC, because the motions did not attack the merits of the Petitioner’s conviction. See Bland v. Hall, 2002 WL 989532, at *2 (D. Mass. May 14, 2002) (stating that a motion to revise and revoke “does not challenge the legal sufficiency of the conviction or imposition of the sentence. Rather, it provides a mechanism whereby the trial judge may reconsider a concededly lawful sentence to remedy some perceived unfairness.”), aff’d, 2003 WL 1825681 (1st Cir. Apr. 8, 2003); Sheriff of Suffolk County v. Pires, 438 Mass. 96, 99-100, 777 N.E.2d 1231, 1233-34 (2002) (stating that state writ of habeas corpus cannot be used to challenge merits of

First, an interlocutory appeal to the SJC will not be considered an exhaustion of state remedies where the Petitioner retains the ability to raise his federal claims after trial through the state's direct appellate process. See Hutson v. Justices of Wareham Dist. Court, 552 F. Supp. 974, 977-78 (D. Mass. 1982) (noting that, in Costarelli v. Massachusetts, 421 U.S. 193 (1975), "the Supreme Court found that a decision denying relief under the Court's superintendency powers is not a final judgment of the state's highest court"). Second, the Petition here raises federal claims beyond those related to the suppression of evidence seized from him by the government. Thus, even if the Petitioner could be found to have exhausted the claims raised within his interlocutory appeal, he could not be found to have exhausted all of the federal claims advanced in his Petition. A petition containing any unexhausted claims runs afoul of the exhaustion requirement. See Rose, 455 U.S. at 510, 518-20. In short, the Petitioner seemingly raised challenges through every type of filing except that which may have actually effected review of his conviction by the state's high court. His failure to exhaust state remedies could not be more plain.

The Petitioner's failure to exhaust was not excused by application of any statutory alternative to exhaustion. As in Mele, the Petitioner has not argued and cannot argue that there is an absence of state collateral procedures available to permit him to raise his federal claims. 850 F.2d at 824 (stating that court was unaware of any lack of available procedures in Massachusetts, and noting that "Massachusetts provides a broad panoply of procedures for post-conviction challenges to the validity of criminal sentences"). He also cannot maintain that any such assertion of federal claims in state court would be futile, and "it would be presumptuous . . . to conclude that [the Petitioner] is barred from seeking such relief when he has never endeavored to pursue it." Id.

criminal conviction). This Court need not reach this issue, however, in light of the Petitioner's failure to place such matters before the SJC.

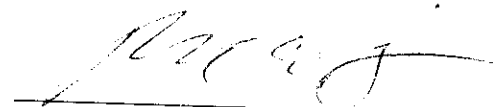

In light of the Petitioner's complete failure to exhaust state remedies and inability to invoke any statutory exception, dismissal of the Petition at issue is warranted. See, e.g., Rose, 455 U.S. at 510 (affirming that statutory scheme requires dismissal of petition containing nonexhausted claims); Duckworth, 454 U.S. at 4 ("Because obvious constitutional errors, no less than obscure transgressions, are subject to the requirements of § 2254(b), the Court of Appeals was obligated to dismiss respondent's petition.").

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Motion should be allowed, and the Petition should be dismissed in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
